

Museum Director Andrew Mancini visited the Transbay Terminal on its final day before demolition, July 30, 2010. Eight years later, the new transit center is officially open (August 12, 2018). View pictures from the former Transbay Terminal...

Above: A Greyhound bus parked inside the Transbay Terminal.

Below: Museum Director Andrew Mancini stands at one of the old bus platforms, inside the Transbay Terminal.

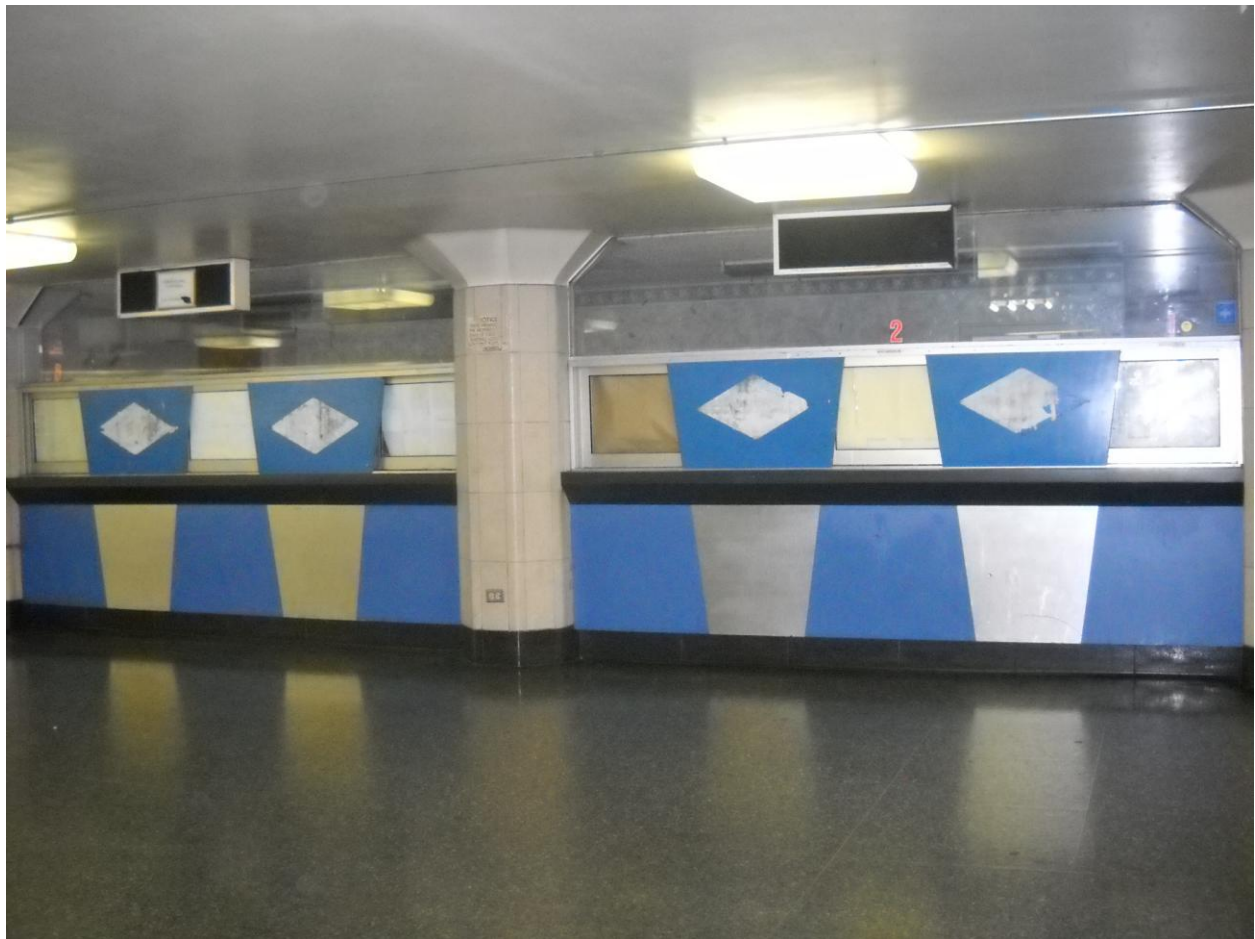

Below: An advertisement for an AC Transit Bus Pass inside the Transbay Terminal.

Below: Standing by an AC Transit bus platform in a covered waiting area.

Below: An old ticket counter inside the waiting area of the Transbay Terminal, which was originally built in 1939.

Below: A bar area inside the terminal.

Below: Buses park outside the MUNI waiting area, adjacent to the Transbay Terminal.

Below: Inside the Transbay Terminal, Andrew Mancini stands in front of a “Making The Move” sign, which details the 8-year temporary Transbay Terminal.

